Projects and Published Works

Learning Who to Trust: Policy Learning in Single-Stage Decision Problems with Unreliable Expert Advice

Undergoing peer review

In this research, supervised by Dr. Ritesh Ajoodha and Prof. Benjamin Rosman, we present a reinforcement learning algorithm for solving single-stage decision problems incorporating interactive policy advice from multiple experts, whose advice may or may not be reliable.

Building Undirected Influence Ontologies Using Pairwise Similarity Functions

Published in 2020 International SAUPEC/RobMech/PRASA Conference

This research, supervised by Dr. Ritesh Ajoodha, seeks to develop a set of algorithms to recover the undirected skeleton of an influence ontology for knowledge discovery purposes.

Wrobot (Honours)

In this project, a system was developed to allow two Turtlebots to compete for possession of a ball. The project employed several techniques, such as colour detection, PRM, Dijkstra's Algorithm and PID control.

Skills

Programming Languages

- Python
- Matlab
- Dart
- Java
- C
- C++
- JavaScript
- PHP
- SQL

Experience working with Flutter and Django.

Computer Science

- Machine Learning
- Probabilistic Graphical Models
- Reinforcement Learning
- Computer Vision and Image Processing
- High Performance Computing (Open MP, CUDA and MPI)
- Algorithmic Analysis

Languages

- English (home language)
- Italian (fluent)
- Latin (high school level)
- Afrikaans (high school level)

Musical Instruments

- Trombone (ABRSM Grade 8)
